

FIGURE 4. Patent granted to Charles W. Thurston and Sarah Emery Dudley (July 14, 1914).

she arranged for its new publication by a commercial publisher. This required copyrighting under an individual's legal name, so she gave her own. Since The Brothers no longer existed as a working group, there was no reason to perpetuate their mystery. If this is correct, the joint patent of a "book cover" in which names can be inserted and removed was appropriately symbolic, even prophetic.